Justin Narducci is the President and Chief Executive Officer of CURE International, a Christian NGO with over 1,300+ employees that operates a global network of eight pediatric hospitals to provide surgical care for children living with treatable disabilities such as clubfoot, cleft lip/palate, knock knees, bowed legs, and hydrocephalus.

In 2024, CURE International performed 20,000+ life-changing surgeries for children in the world's most underserved regions of Africa and the Philippines.

Justin is an expert in global health and development with an MBA in international management from Thunderbird School of Global Management. He is a board member and/or advisor to Christian Connections for International Health, the Global Surgery Fund, and the Chalmers Center for Economic Development.

Justin began his career with The Boeing Company in global finance and contracting. Prior to joining CURE in June 2020, he served for seven years as President and CEO of Lifewater International, where he led an organizational turnaround and significantly expanded the organization's impact and traceability.

At CURE, Justin has spearheaded major strategic initiatives, including the development and execution of the 2022-2024 strategic plan and the creation of a 2025-2029 CURE MAX plan. Under his leadership, CURE merged with International Aid and successfully secured a $50M capital campaign to modernize hospital facilities and expand services.
